I have been teaching teens and adults from the James Bastien Older Beginner series which is good, but I find that teens are happier with the song selection from the Faber series. You get songs such as "The Mysterious Casbah", and "Jazz Blast" which entertain as they teach. Also I should point out that the Faber series introduces pentascales before teaching an entire scale. I prefer teaching the entire scale right away. So to sum it up, I prefer the James Bastien method for its theory structure, but like the song selection in the Faber method better. Why not use both? Yep, that's what I do. Happy teaching and playing!

Great series of books for beginners. My son is currently using this particular book and enjoys it. The difficulty level is just about right for him, and he's been playing about half a year now. The first book was great too!

As a piano teacher of more than a quarter of a century, the Faber series is my favorite I've ever used. Unless the child is in 2nd grade or lower, I usually start them with the Accelerated Piano Adventures for the Older Beginner. Between Book 1 & 2 of the Older Beginner series, it covers the primer through 2B material at a little faster pace and then jumps back into the regular series at 3A.

I am a piano teacher and use this book for students that are 12 and older and starting piano. It's perfect for them!

I completed the first edition of this book and enjoyed the variety of selections and the method used. I'm only half way through this edition, but it makes learning to play the piano easy and fun.

I definitely recommend to piano players who want get back into the groove or want a better challenge. Great for pianists of all ages!

Very well written for the older learner. Would recommend the series for the older learner. I am buying the whole series

We love this book! This book made piano lesson fun, and we have so much more confidence when playing the piano.
